COVID-19 Vaccine Fact Sheet for Burlington

Canada's COVID-19 immunization requires close collaboration between all governments, Indigenous peoples, experts and partners in Canada and abroad.

Federal government

Safe & timely delivery on behalf of, and to P/Ts<sup>1</sup>; approves safe & efficacious vaccines for use; supports P/Ts<sup>1</sup> to manage more complex logistics

Provincial & Territorial governments

Provinces and territories are responsible for delivering vaccinations to their populations. Tasks include planning sequencing, managing and communicating vaccination plan and administering vaccines

Indigenous peoples

F/P/T<sup>2</sup> governments work together with First Nations, Inuit and Métis leaders to support community-led approaches for access to an efficacious and culturally safe immunization program

Expert advisers

Includes health/logistics experts from academia & Immunization Committees; to ensure evidence-based immunization

International collaborators

Close cooperation with the WHO and the scientific & regulatory community will support approval and roll-out

COVID-19 vaccines approved for use in Canada are free. They're available to priority populations first.

The National Advisory Committee on Immunization (NACI)

The National Advisory Committee on Immunization (NACI) is an independent committee of experts that provides advice to the Public Health Agency of Canada. This advice is then distributed and published to inform decision making by provinces and territories, which are responsible for administering vaccines and deciding which populations will receive them first.
